#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
1	The City of Evanston should prioritize improving quality of life, reducing the growth of the tax burden for homeowners, and protect Evanston's single-family neighborhoods.
2	Understanding the commercial real estate and construction markets and how these will take advantage of zoning changes to maximize profits.
3	I would support explicitly identifying the kind of housing that we need to fill the gaps: income-restricted housing (1400 units needed) and "missing middle" housing (2000+ units needed). I do NOT think that just adding "new housing" is a good goal.
4	Consider the high cost of property taxes an impose a burden on small units landlords in trying to maintain reasonable rents for their tenants. Just Cause Eviction is not compatible with Owner Occupied small multi-flats and the desire to maintain NORCS. As a small landlord I will need to be on the defense with my tenants, there will be a lot of additional expenses that will necessitate an increase in rent.
5	For new housing, units should be of varying size, allowing both single individuals and families to all live in Evanston.
7
8	New housing should be infill housing or TOD. Demolition should not be encouraged
9	Keeping all zoning the same in the same place
10	Lower taxes and use funds for education and protection services
11
13	Much faster approval process on new buildings. It's ridiculously slow.
14	No one has mentioned anything concerning those the are physically disabled and require handicap access apartments especially regarding the bathroom having handicap rails in assistance in using the toilet including the shower/bathtubs making it handicap accessible. Where I live there's a ramp leading to the basement area in doing laundry to which the landlord refuses in placing handicap rails along the ranp to grab when walking up/down the ramp You discuss low income and black residents and ignoring those that aee physically disabled
17	Build more vertically rather than change existing zoning
18	The city must increase pressure on the CTA to improve security and cleanliness on trains and buses, to increase the utilization of public transportation to Chicago. This would make high-density developments near L stops more desirable, and decrease reliance on cars.
19	Preserve the integrity of neighborhoods as a high priority, Do not permit the non-conforming multi-unit properties on residential streets that don't already have these units, establish exception zones for new construction outside of established residential neighborhoods, propose conversion and incentivise first time home buyers by converting rental properties into more permanent living instead of trying to build new properties.
20	Provide Evanston based rent subsidy similar to section 8 for Evanston residents only

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
21	Make sure the very low income can afford Accessible safe housing
22	I recommend you stop using Evanston as your political sandbox, Biss.
23	Keeping Evanston smaller and not overpopulated.
24	Take it seriously how people are being priced out of living in Evanston.out of living in Evanston. Stop all the talk and seriously
25
26
27
28
29	Create new deeply affordable housing
30	Remove historic preservation district in order to build more housing
31	Continue the reparations work implemented as well as offer grants for maintaining homeownership
32	There is one significant gap in the draft report which is identifying the gaps/needs for affordability based on income and size of family. Only then can we understand the most important types of housing we need to preserve or create.
33
34
35	Change zoning to allow "pocket villages " of tiny houses
36	Reduce property taxes and spend budget on fixing critical things like replacing sewers and lead water lines. Make it affordable for business and do away with things like reparations-put that money toward schools for the kids we have now!
37	Reduce property taxes and focus on bringing in business without tax incentives. Speed up implementation of infrastructure plans (especially sewers and water lines-it is absurd that we have water that you can't drink safely!)
38
39	Stronger policies for landlords and safety
40
41	We are already very dense here; whatever you do, don't increase density!
42
43	The current proposal provides zero evidence that densifying single family residential zones will provide affordable housing and meet the stated objectives. Multiple developers have spoken to the committee with real world experience that this will just drive up prices. Take a look at the new townhouses being developed on Central selling for nearly $1.4 million/each. That is not affordable housing but that's what developers will build as land value is so high here. If the city was truly interested in increasing housing stock they would approve the high-rises being proposed in downtown.

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
44	Do not rezone for multiple housing units
45
46	Local, state and federal funding to build affordable housing in a variety of locations.
47	Keep current affordable housing in good repair
48	Ensure that all efforts to maintain and create more opportunities for affordable housing actually result in options for all Evanston residents and do not benefit land developers who will profit from creating more units that they can sell or rent for the same very high prices
49	This sounds great but PLEASE address the historic segregation and economic inequality that has been abandoned/addressed for many many years in Evanston Illinois. When we use that word affordable, what does this REALLY mean? I think plopping a home that looks distinctly different and where minority families live is not ideal. But truly making the homes look similar and where the neighbors who maybe have lived in Evanston for many 20 years or more can sometime possess this elitist privileged attitude that I don't want "Them" diversity living here, or I'd rather use this land to build a community garden for "US". My suggestion is to REALLY be careful not to cause more harm on both sides, the current neighbors who may live in the majority white neighborhoods as especially the new neighbors you are considering to move into the affordable housing homes/units, ect. (Kindly, continue to be very intentional in thinking about the economic loss that many black people who live and lived neighborhoods and are currently living with the harm as well as black people who have been harmed and suffered and all the (isms) we can name together. - Great Idea though...
50	Enforcing Landlord restrictions - Some LandLords are currently charging higher than the market rate on some of their units. There does not seem to be a rent control practice within Evanston city limits.
51
52	Leave single-family home neighborhoods alone! Keep R-1 zoning as is, since eliminating it won't solve any affordability problems and it will ruin neighborhoods.
53	Evanston should promote housing development through a district-based strategy rather than blanket changes to pursue homogeneity i.e. housing geared toward students near universities, more density near downtown and transit, downsizing options and communities for seniors, and affordable 3bd+ housing demanded by families with children in R1
54	I could support some form of "Create new housing to address gaps in the supply" if it were more specific about the kinds and locations of housing to be created and the gaps to be addressed.
55
56	Finding ways to reduce the rent
57	manage city budget/tax money more responsibly so fees, taxes stop rising - helping those of us already here to stay here first.
58	Utilize and implement Housing Vouchers
59	Housing for the homeless
60
61	Encourage school and city workers to live within the boundaries of Evanston

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
62	Reduce city government from this process.
63
64
65
66	Some people don't need a house, seriously they don't need it. Only thing they need is just a small room to sleep 8 hours and take shower. Instead of focusing on housing, focusing on creating safe affordable dormitories would be better. It is easier, more affordable, and also it allows people to socialize. $200 for a month, no extra fees. Only for low income or no income individuals or couples. I believe you can do it. It is easy. Even I would invest in such a thing if I had money. Thank you so much for spending your valuable time on meaningful projects....
67
68
69
70	Property taxes are a big problem
71	Removing red tape and bureaucratic policies, especially when developers want to build large buildings downtown.
72
73	remove all R1 zoning city wide
74
75
76
77	Preserve existing value for current homeowners. For many, especially seniors, a home is their most valuable asset and any plan should avoid eriding that.
78
79	Educate people that it is not a zero sum game, and help mitigate NIMBY behavior
80
81	Making a path to homeownership more available. Downpayment assistance. Reduce IHO fees for condo units.
82
83
84
85
86
87	Encourage ADUs and other small housing options

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
88	Focus on housing for families with school age children and support their transition and success in our public schools.
89
90	Income driven rent considerations that reflect reasonable NET incomes.
91
92	Stop allowing development of luxury apartments at unaffordable rents. STOP DENSITY. I'm a victim of density and am so unhappy
93	Consider people like myself who make too much to qualify for any financial assistance, but still pay 30%+ for housing costs.
94
95	Turn underutilized Northwestern dorms into apartments for low-income housing
96	Preserve character of the housing
97	Don't overbuild downtown; make sure new high rises have sufficient parking
98	Be mindful of those who already paid yrs of property taxes and increased density where already not enough parking where one lives (condos)
99	density (more density); integrate affordability in every ward
100	Do something about outrageous property taxes and decreased services
101
102
103	More affordable housing.
104
105	When D65 schools close, turn the buildings into affordable housing .
106	Stop tearing down modest houses to build bigger homes. Maintain the very modest homes we do have.
107
108
109
110
111	Reduce red tape that makes it harder and more expensive to build more housing
112
113	Solutions should be reasonable. The notion that we can solve a national housing shortage in Evanston is leading some to lose a grounding in reality.
114	Ensure seniors have safe affordable housing

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
115	Prevent upzoning in order to preserve current population density because the City's fragile environment and infrastructure can't support additional density.
116	Do not rezone single family lots for multi family properties.
117
118	Reduce household transportation costs by creating alternatives to car ownership. Transportation access is a critical factor in housing costs.
119
120	not enough information given to support any of these objectives
121	free market economy
122	Do not fundamentally change the zoning profile of Evanston neighborhoods to attempt to manipulate the housing market.
123	leave socialism out of zoning
124
125	More units in or near downtown Evanston that accommodate families
126
127	Rent control especially in SE Evanston.
128
129	Your survey Qs seem too simplistic to capture meaningful thoughts of residents.
130
131	help us! I'm a renter and my rent has gone up $400 in the past 2 1/2 years, but my salary hasn't been increased at all in that time.
132	Affordable Market Purchase Program (AMPP) enables eligible first-time homeowners with moderate income the opportunity to purchase a newly constructed townhouse or condominium. https://www.loudoun.gov/ampp I lived outside of DC in Northern VA and they had this. It was helpful and made owning a home amongst the wealthiest people possible for me and retail workers in the area when I was younger with a family.
133	Renters are paying a lot of money for houses and apartments which are in poor condition and have insects and bugs infestation. City should take action to encourage owners to take action and fix this issue.
134
135	Provide assistance for affordable housing, not lower quality and lower living conditions
136	Don't let developers pay money into an affordable housing fund instead of creating actual affordable housing. An affordable housing fund doesn't help if there are no affordable units to rent.
137
138	Lower property taxes.
139	Surveys that are not one/sided and self/fufilling.

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
140	It's ridiculously expensive to live here. I feel like people are either making 100,000 dollars a year or 20,000. So the median actually isn't a fair assessment. Especially all the city of Evanston jobs or D65 jobs available pay almost next to nothing, would be impossible to live in the city you work with the salaries they offer which doesn't make sense.
141	Focus on 2.3 ADUs, 2.5 zoning, and especially 2.6 streamline approvals. To streamline, hold staff accountable to target response times from full/staged submissions, and dedicate city resources to push back on unreasonable NIMBYs. Charge a fee if folks are objecting beyond the initial round - mounting fees for each successive appeal filed to discourage sore losers from gumming up the works with repeated appeals, and dedicate city legal resources to pushing back when objectors litigate with bad faith claims the city don't follow its own processes. Reference provisions of IL AHPAA even if Evanston is exempt. See Mt Laurel, NJ.
142	City of Evanston MUST prioritize affordable housing in 1st, 6th, and 7th ward respectively.
144
145
146	Illinois law has strong protections for renters that make it already difficult to displace them. Landlords factor this into rent. Some sort of compromise here - lower rents but enforceable penalties for nonpayment would reduce risk for landlords.
147
148	Speed up the permitting process. Build more high rise units to increase population to increase property tax revenues.
149
150
151	Preserve a mix of housing to suit the needs of residents and preserve parking and traffic infrastructure to support families and older residents.
152
153	Maintain low density and environmentally green spaces. There are plenty of apartments in Evanston.
154
155
156	None
157	Reduce barriers on developers and increase supply to reduce cost.
158	The city of Evanston should let the market and people determine housing

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
160	Make sure the strength of Evanston's police force is sufficient to deal with the inevitable increase in crime that happens in any neighborhoods that have low income housing. It's simply a fact. Even if the people living in the housing are vetted, the people who come to stay with/visit them are not. We have low income housing next to my current condo building and the amount of noise at all house of the night (police have been called) from people associated with the building is maddening. You think diversity makes a city successful? Low crime and good housing values for the people paying taxes makes a city successful.
161	The focus should be on current residents and their quality of life. Residents are not asking for increased density--developers are
163
164
165
166	I think that in addition to building new affordable housing we should also make an effort to fill homes that already exist.
167	As someone who bought in 2020 at rock bottom interest rates, I know I would not be able to afford where I live given current interest rates. OUTRAGEOUS property tax increases however are quickly making me feel inadequate in my neighborhood and make me question how long we can hold on especially since my employer frequently withholds annual salary raises due to their own mounting financial pressures. So, I am sympathetic to the needs & purpose of the Plan. However, I ask that UGLY units STOP BEING BUILT in our communities! They have no lasting appeal or value and don't fit the surrounding neighborhood structures. Biss' YIMBY philosophy needs to be checked in light of this. Stop letting greedy developers come in and do whatever the hell they want. They are pulling fast ones on city council and taking advantage of everyone in the meantime.
168
169	Maintaining character of existing neighborhoods
170
171
172
173
174	Preserve the value of our homes. For many residents, home ownership is the single largest investment they have. One path to affordability is to degrade the value of Evanston properties. The District 65 crisis has certainly had a negative impact on home values in Evanston. Please pay attention to preserving value as you move forward, and please prioritize existing residents over hypothetical new residents.
175
176	Standardized rental increases. My rent has increased $50 a year which has made living on Evanston at the same residence for years impossible. No one like to move often.
177	Preserve the property values of all residents.
178

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
179	Abolish three unrelated persons rule.
180
181	Rent control
182	The property taxes are incredibly high. Where can we trim the fat?
183	Intentionally permit creation of mid-market, higher density housing near economic corridors and close to mass transit. Permit duplex houses. Permit conversion of single family homes to duplexes. Our basic restrictions on increased density to avoid turning entire neighborhoods into higher density areas while destroying our beautiful, century old housing stock.
184	I really appreciate the various housing programs including the former Live Evanston initiative. It garnered a lot of public attention and really focused on Evanston living long term.
185	Relax zoning standards to make it easier to build mixed-use residential and commercial buildings. Update building codes to allow for more modern and affordable construction procedures (e.g. allowing PEX piping instead of requiring copper) which would help decrease construction costs, especially for lower income home owners.
186	Lower my taxes!!
187
188
189
190
191	Prioritize affordable housing, not density. Many of the new developments that increase density are NOT affordable - for example, the new 3,800 sq. ft. townhomes to be built at 3233 Central Street that are listed at $1,360,000. Also, please consider limiting the number of small, single-level homes that can be flipped into million-dollar multi-story homes that tower above their neighbors. This has occurred with 3 of the 4 homes that surround my own raised ranch home.
192
193
194
195
196
197	Protect single family homes and the character of our neighborhoods
198	I am against upzoning. It will not create affordable housing, just expensive duplexes. Developers want to get the most for their investment
199	Preserving our present neighborhoods
200
201
202

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
203
204	Keep Evanston the way it is. Stop trying to ruin it just so that Mayor Piss can advance his political career
205
206	Allow rental of residential units in coach houses, permit rental of existing in-law units and existing former servant's quarters. Assist owners of substandard housing to bring it up to code in exchange for agreements on limiting rent increases.
207
208
209
210
211	Mandate that all rental property owners must have a third of rental units in every size category anchored to minimum wage, such that monthly rent never exceeds 25% of monthly income for minimum wage workers no matter how many bedrooms. Jacking up prices on multi bedroom units should be considered discrimination against families with children--a protected class. Ban rental price-fixing. ALSO: Do not allow rental buildings to be sold to buyers who intend to convert the property to condos or a single-family home. If a buyer wants a SFH they can buy a property that is already a SFH. They should not be allowed to buy a rental building just so they can evict residents who have done nothing wrong. People who have been evicted for this should receive damages from the city for having allowed it. It should be acknowledged as the injustice it is.
212	focus on seniors who have helped create the community that Evanston
214
215	There are neighborhoods with more affordable housing nearby. They are called Rogers Park and Skokie. If Evanston is too expensive low income residents can move there. Evanston can't afford to provide housing to anyone. Our taxes are obscenely high, our school district is in shambles etc. Lower taxes and provide basic services to the residents who are actually paying taxes
216	remove single family zoning from most areas
217	Make it easier and faster to build more housing
218
219
220	Don't make it any harder for landlords. Evanston Residential Landlord Tenant Ordinance is heavily and sufficiently written in favor of the tenant.
221
222	More multifamily buildings and multifamily/multiple use zoning. 4+ bedroom apartments
223	Reduce the property tax burden
224	Neighborhoods and cities change all the time. It is a misplacement of money and effort to keep things as they are.

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
225
226
227	Develop housing in areas already zoned for it. Use underdeveloped areas near transport like along Green Road.
228
229	While I wholeheartedly support the goal of creating a more equitable Evanston and all the efforts made thus far, I am concerned that this specific plan may not be the most effective way to achieve the systemic change we need. As a person of color, I worry that plans narrowly focused on racial categories can result in tokenism rather than addressing the root causes of economic inequality. True equity comes from investing in our entire community fabric and creating universal opportunities that uplift all working families and individuals. Our focus should be on holistic solutions that build lasting wealth for everyone. Rather than a top-down mandate, I would love to see the city make broader strategic investment plans for our community. For example, creating public-private partnerships to develop unused properties and attract investments, raise private funds for business incubators, and expand job training programs that lead to sustainable, living-wage careers. Such approach would empower our residents directly and build our local economy from the ground up, a model that has proven successful in creating inclusive growth. My concern is that the current plan will not lead to the most effective use of our city's resources. With property taxes already straining working families and individuals, every dollar must be invested for maximum impact. We cannot afford additional costly programs that don't produce lasting, equitable results, especially when any additional fund could be used to improve schools, infrastructure, and job initiatives that benefit the entire community. To be clear, robust social safety nets are non-negotiable for a just society. My opposition is not to the goal, but to this specific approach. I am eager to discuss and work together to find a more effective path to the equitable and economically sustainable future we all want for our city.
230	I was born in Evanston, lived there until 11. Now on the border, in Roger's Park. Short sole last home. In DB w/DB son. Too many of us seniors have a live in adult child, have lost homes in crash, need affordable housing
232
233
234	Look into smartly designed smaller units that allow for multiple functions. Maximize the space to decrease costs.
235
236	Cut spending so property taxes and other taxes and fees won't keep going up so much
237
238
239	What about the seniors?
240	Provide affordable housing for those that work here but cannot afford the FMR
241	Do not change residential zoning ordinance!

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
242	I have a job that affords me the ability to live in Evanston w access to public transit, and no car. I can barely afford my healthcare atop of the Evanston property tax and all add-on taxes. If I could not afford it I would move. I don't think the entire community should be going out of the way to make the entire city affordable for all. Eventually the City will squeeze out the very population that pays for the every day sustainability of the basics. I would like to reduce the affordable housing and limit subsidies for apartments to two or fewer bedrooms. Thank you.
243
244
245	make it easier for new housing to be built by reducing regulation
246
247	All economically disadvantaged individuals need to be considered!
248	No high rises with retail on bottom. Brings no interest or charm. And haven't we learned the retail on bottom never gets leased? How many nail salons do we need?
249
250	Increasing the connectivity of bike trails would make non-car transit easier, and denser housing more desirable for both lenders and construction firms as well as for homeowners and renters.
251
252	Protect long-term residents from being displaced by Northwestern students in the Dewey district. In a 2-bedroom apartment, Northwestern students can cram 5 students, and thereby pay 5 times as much as a single mom with 2 children. The City should encourage Northwestern to provide sufficient housing for all of its students, instead of displacing long-term residents from housing stock.
253	Keep the Evanston we've always known!
254
255	My taxes increase my monthly payments by 50% - and this money is not always spent in a fiscally responsible way (D65 school facilities, 'fountain' square, lack of vision for city hall move before signing a lease...). However, for homeowners, our property is our largest investment. If taxes were kept in check, but property values increased, we would have no cost of living increase but homeowners would have generated more generational wealth.
256	Rezone underused industrial land for residential use.
257
258
259	Help Hispanic families become eligible for affordable housing [Ayudar familias de hispanos poder ser eligible para affordable housing]
260
261	They need help right now with the rent, because many of us can't. We have to go out to work for fear of filing reports, and the money isn't enough to cover housing, food, and utilities. [Que ayuden ahorita con la renta de las viviendas porque muchos no puede. Salir a trabajar por el miedo hacer reportados y el dinero no alcanza para cubrir los gastos de vivienda, viles y comida]

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
262
263	N/A
264
265
266	Charge rents based on income. Families have to choose between food or rent. [Cobrar las rentas basadas en los ingresos. Las familias tienen que elegir entre comida o renta.]
267	Lower taxes
268	preserve the character of Evanston as a liveable community... Our budget outlays for social work/poverty level people is over 14% of our budget...
269	adopt the city comprehensive lan, and rezoning goals
270	Changing zoning, increasing density
271	More evanston residents less outside occupants
272	Preserve 30% single family housing stock. Maintain current population density. Don't overbuild neighborhoods and downtown Evanston with high rise housing.
273
274
275
276
277
278	Offer property tax relief for low or fixed-income homeowners that has owned a home in Evanston more than 40 years to help prevent displacement. Because this initiative will cost money and the city's greatest revenue is property taxes. This satisfies "Preserve" and "Protect". OR Design a program similar to a "reverse mortgage"; stay in your home, no mortgage, tax-free money; non-recourse loan; loan repaid when [set conditions] this could satisfy "PRESERVE", "CREATE", & "PROTECT"
279
280
281
282
283	Refurbish is more cost effective than new build.
284
285	Create more opportunities for affordable housing.
286	Flexible zoning code to allow for diverse housing types in all parts of Evanston. Upzoning to maximize housing supply.

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
287	Increase the diversity of housing options throughout the city. Increase missing middle housing throughout the city.
288	add direct language for 'by-right' development
289	Pass rent control laws and enforce them
290
291	If possible, a cap on rent increases. Ours is going up 9% this year!
292	Transit- oriented density- both new construction and old/rehab - lots and lots of it - is the way to have more affordable housing overall.
293	Rent control for older buildings like in California
294	Create affordable housing for low-income renters, and first time renters.
295	Changes to zoning laws so that affordable housing is available in ALL wards!!! (Special attention to Wards 6 & 7)
296	More reparations
297	Conversion of unused spaces instead of rezoning single family lots.
298	Produce more projects with CAPH
299
300	Every building that has gone up since I have lived here has had rents exceeding over $2k/month for a studio. Where is that affordable, especially for a family? A mixed use building is proposed for Main/Sherman. Just built one across the street and a 2 BR rents for well over $3k/month. Is this what we have to look forward to?
301
302
303	Helping first time home buyer
304	Re new housing, consider overpopulation of area bldg sites, i.e. traffic, parking, etc. Consider separate storage for bicycles, etc. As for affordable units, management should honor background checks and enforce rules regarding unsavory characters, or dont perform background checks at all
305
306
307	Bring back the Live Evanston program
308
309	Rent control and green social housing
310	Lower property taxes as the first priority, as that will make living in Evanston more affordable!
311
312	Stipends and relief support for renters, particularly in times of notable cost increases (similar to Homeowner Relief Fund)

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
313	preserve single-family residences
314
315
316
317	First , present data on how much housing will be needed and from what sources this data is derived. New housing should be equalized in all wards, including high rises. Preferably smaller buildings and housing that will encourage more neighbor interaction
318	Do what is needed to lower taxes so people can afford to live here
319	We should do something to protect modest housing West of Dodge and in many parts of Evanston. People often buy these properties that are modest starter homes and put huge additions on. Also more housing and density is not the answer We have so much density here. There must be parking too for these larger projects. The traffic is getting very uncomfortable People tell me they avoid Evanston because of it
320	Please purchase the property at 1917-1919 Greenwood and convert into affordable housing. This would be a great way to right the wrongs of red-lining from years past. Krissie Harris shared that a few buyers were interested in the property. Its proximity to ETHS would be a book for working families with school-aged students.
321	More multi family units including 605 Davis
322
323
324	Housing for seniors....we need more!
325	Upzoning, Eliminate Parking minimums, reduce household transportation costs by building protected bike lanes and running more bus service
326	This gives me so much hope. Right on, Evanston
327	Rethink our infrastructure to be less car dependent so folks can walk or bike/scoot easily and safely in Evanston.
328
329	Build supply alongside market demands and ensure existing residents are happy with their neighborhoods development
330	Parking permits cost affect people of low incomer more than other groups
331
332	Free market rent rates
333	More density
334	Approve the 605 Davis building which will create numerous residential units
335	Create very affordable, small, homes that are from floods and tornadoes. I recommend dome houses that are storm-resistant. Please see monolithic.com for examples. Nobody should have to live outdoors in Chicago weather. We could designate a strip of land at the borders of parks and fill it with small homes. We could easily provide space and housing for all people.

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
336	We don't have a housing crisis we have an affordability crisis. Building more luxury units will only drive up the cost of housing throughout Evanston. If the city was sincere about housing they would've created a landtrust years ago to protect housing stock like the wesley units. The current plan is based on Reaganomics trickle down affordability
337
338	Create generational wealth opportunities via lease to buy
339	Upzone Evanston downtown, simplify permitting to increase housing supply and lower housing prices by increasing competition among landlords
340	Evanston is already one of the densest suburbs in Illinois
341	prioritize eco-friendly development
342	Make developers adhere to zoning codes and ensure all relevant committees like the Land Use Commission are always staffed with experts.
343	Let people have the peace of mind of knowing their zoning can't be changed on a whim. I can't afford a SFH but when I am able to finally save up for one, I would like to know it's not going to be next to a multi-year-long condo construction project. I've already had to live with Ryan Field construction noise for over a year thanks to you.
344
345	Maintaining historic character; avoid high rises (filing cabinets for people); not think Evanston has to solve all of Chicagoland's housing problems.
346	Diversity is not a goal in itself. Focus on helping the middle class (teachers, nurses, etc) equally.
347
348	I recommend performing actual financial analysis to determine costs and avenues for financing any proposed solutions to housing needs. This city has a history of just doing what they think is right without a thought to how they accomplish it and it's getting extremely problematic.
349
350	not sure what you mean by "protect residents from displacement," but if you mean rent control, that's proven not to work...
351
352	Regarding the creation of new housing: The main shortage of housing supply in Evanston is the shortage of low income affordable housing. Any new housing should address gaps in the supply of low income housing with prices/rents not to exceed 25% of a renters/owners total income. Although HUD defines housing as affordable "when it costs no more than 30% of household income" this only serves to keep lower income people from getting ahead. When people can save and get ahead they become more satisfied and better community members. Someone with an income of $150,000 or $250,000 nets a much larger net income once housing is factored in than someone with a $35,000 or $15,000 income. The concept of "affordable housing" is a joke if it does not take this into consideration. This should be Evanston's current focus.
353	Preserve the beauty and diversity we have and don't make everything into high rises

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
354	The best route to stopping displacement is to allow enough units to go up that people no longer get priced out. If you preserve one affordable unit at the cost of two new units, that unit will become unaffordable. In other words, focus on building units, especially near Northwestern to soak up student demand and keep other neighborhoods reasonably quiet.
355	Build more density
356
357	Help first time buyers with understanding their options and reducing burden of downpayment
358
359	Build enough housing to welcome all who would like to live in our community.
360	in the past the city had programs to offer people a mortgage at a lower rate on some condos with a percent of the mortgage having no interest. Look into that program and what happened to it. I got my condo under it in 1999. I also think no new high rises should be added but empty office space should be rezoned for housing and units added to these buildings. All the new construction is terrible for the environment among many other problems with it.
361	district 65 should be addressed first
362	Focus on requirements for new buildings to have x% be required to be owned for buildings above 6 units
363	Work + Reside Programs - A lot residence programs in hotel blocks & pre-fab community blocks
364
365
366
367
368	Develop a range of affordable options for different income levels, including fixed incomes. Take steps to stop perpetual hikes in rent.
369	Appeal to current residents and lower priority on growth. Restaurants and small business DO NOT want to invest in Evanston. Just look at the brand names Wilmette and Glenview are bringing in. My neighbor who is the lead architect of Lettuce Entertain You mentioned to me their CEO has explicitly mentioned "it's hard to do business in Evanston"
370	I don't understand the sense of entitlement to live in a place you can't afford
371
372
373	Think about the high tax payers who like their single family homes and will simply move to Wilmette if you keep pushing vast amounts of tiny housing no one is asking for. We will just take our tax dollars to a new city. Not sure D65 and the city wants that.
374	Preserve neighborhood character and minimize increases in density.
375	create new affordable housing to address gap in the supply not create any housing AND reach out to low income folx in Evanston in other ways than by the internet to boost response rates

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
376	Just let people build housing. Stop attaching so many strings to it. Yesterday's market rate is tomorrow's affordable.
377
378	Evanston policy should encourage building of more units. The more units we have, the more affordable all housing becomes.
379
380	The Margarita In. Should only be for Evanston residents facing homelessness. Priority for those with kids.
381
382	Make sure that housing decisions connect to a clear goal, are fiscally responsible, and and follow the law so there is no risk of lawsuit
383	Let RESIEDNTS prioritize and not city job to create housing
384	Preserve single family zoning (R1)
385	Since 70% of Evanston is multifamily zoning, keep that. But do not get rid of single-family zoning.
386	Low Income/Affordable, Housing First and more PSH housing subsidy options
387	Create new AFFORDABLE housing to address gaps in the supply
388	Assisting residents with employment that produces adequate incomes.
389	Add direct language for "by-right development" in the zoning-update strategy. Make it more than "allow different housing types" – prescribe that certain housing types (e.g. multi-unit, ADUs, missing middle) are permitted by-right under specified conditions.
390	Renovate. Place a cap on rents.
391	Middle/moderate income (60% AMI - 120% AMI) homeownership units.
392
393	I am very concerned that Evanston's administration does not seem concerned with serving the people who live here already and pay very high taxes. I don't think we need to build more housing, but make sure that the housing we have is affordable and well maintained, It is getting more expensive everywhere, but I don't think that this plan is the answer. Building high rises in Evanston is changing the character of our town. I think that the administration should be working on bringing more business to Evanston, there are empty storefronts everywhere, If they are not being used for retail, why can't those be turned into living spaces? Think differently about what we have, stop building more. There is enough congestion in the 3rd ward. Parking and traffic are already and issue, not to mention the lack of services. The lake front is full of garbage, and the parks are not being maintained. Take care of the people who pay to live here already. Where is the plan for that?
394	Preserve the historic feel of this town while providing ACTUAL SUBSTANTIAL solutions for affordable housing without resorting to highrises that do not address affordable housing and destroy the spirit of this town
395	Less density
396	Remove obstructive policies that make privately provided housing difficult

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
397
398	Create conditions, so that private enterprise will create more affordable and middle-gap housing.
399	Please do not include Just Cause as part of this plan
400
401
402	History has proven that you can't force affordable housing on existing inventory. You have to create affordable housing from new inventory. Costs are raising for tenants AND landlords. You can't regulate rents and think that landlords will absorb the loss.
403
404	Request work history to the applicants, financial knowledge or money management,
405
406	I think there should be more specific and direct language for "by-right development" in the zoning update strategy. It should be specified that certain housing types (ex. Multi-unit, ADUs, missing middle) are permitted by-right under specified conditions. A strong zoning code will help support affordable housing.
407
408
409
410	Do not overdevelop
411	Protect owner's rights to their property by not having just cause eviction. It's an expiration of a contract, not an eviction.
412	Build more and higher units.
413
414
415	Let new housing be built without demanding the additional tax of 'affordable' housing being built.
416
417	support strong housing stock
418	Reduce bureaucracy
419
420
421	Make sure existing residents are able to repair and renovate their existing older homes to allow them to remain viable for future generations. Understand that these older homes are the affordable ones as they already exist. They might have some older characteristics but that is one of the reasons people move to Evanston. do not create barriers to repair...
422	This is one part of housing.

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
423	lower costs of providing housing so it can be affordable
424	allow naturally occurring affordable housing... albeit difficult since Evanston is a high-income area.... My family owned rental property in Evanston for 40 years and our property was affordable until property taxes made affordability impossible.
425
426
427
428	Stop clogging up areas that cannot take it. Stop giving parking exceptions. Actually make affordable housing
429
430
431	additional supply
432
433	Keep taxes and rules down to keep landlord expenses down. This is the way to keep rents affordable
434
435	Put caps on how much private landlords can raise rent. Tiered taxes. I can afford to buy a home, but I can almost never afford the taxes.
436
437	Encourage more construction is the answer
438
439
440
441	Allow market forces to determine housing unit availability and cost
442	Loosening density rules.
443	Prioritize at-risk residents (those who face housing insecurity)
444	Do not increase density in neighborhoods. Just living in Evanston does not improve lives, being able to live like Evanston is the goal.
445	Build new affordable housing
446
447	Having grants available to protect those that have a short period of time in which they can't pay their rent would be optimal.
448
449

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
450
451	Higher density and get rid of single family zoning
452	Reduce city spending, increase efficiency of programs, and limit tax increases in order to make Evanston more affordable to residents
453
454
455	I do not believe you should get rid of single family zoning
456
457
458
459
460	Regional coordination of housing goals given that Evanston has a higher percentage of multi unit dwellings than the surrounding communities, even the city of Chicago. This entire project is misguided and will hurt long term residents
461	Mixed zoning
462	Create more housing for the unhoused.
463
464
465
466	Help homeowners stay in their home. Taxes are extremely high
467	People purchased real estate because of the way it is - not because they want major changes
468
469	YIMBY
470	CREATE JOBS
471	Focus on housing that desperately needs repair. Allow large houses to be used or subdivided to be used by more than one family unit. Focus on transportation to allow people working in Evanston to live outside of Evanston. Don't build big high rises that tax the infrastructure even more. They don't help the people who already live here. Provide incentives for retirees to sell their houses or share space. Provide housing for seniors to encourage them to give up houses they own. Think carefully about how vacant schools will be repurposed and what will happen if the number of school children increases.
472
473
474	Preserve green space on each lot

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
475	Include low income seniors also
476
477	Retain the majority of open spaces, especially if density increases
478	provide more economic diversity in the 5th ward to help support businesses moving in. There is a fear that most affordable housing is easier to put in the areas that are more economically disadvantaged. Also make it possible for entry home purchase and not just rent, as home purchases are a major way to help accumulate wealth.
479	Not destroying Evanston
480	This whole initiative is a scam concocted by the city and our terrible mayor. This questionnaire is also a fake attempt at being democratic. The new housing that is being created is far from affordable. Shame on Evanston leaders, especially that clown Biss!
481	Enough with so much focus on people who participate little to none in funding all the things Evanston has to offer. Many of us had to wait to move here when we were making enough money to support living here and don't fall under low income. Start taking care of the people who pay the taxes so they will stay.
482	Preserve the livability and neighborhood character of Evanston, focus on low density, low rise options, and preserve green spaces. Do NOT overbuild and do NOT compromise or further stress the infrastructure, esp water, sewer and roads
483
484	Support upzoning
485
486
487
488	Not allow for high density housing in every part of Evanston
489
490	Let's not go crazy. I'm against anything extreme, and whatever bold steps are taken will have extreme unintended consequences
491	Build reasonably priced housing near public transportation. Evanston needs more 3-4 bedroom homes under $800K. More townhomes would be great.
492	instituting good financial habits in residents, welfare repayments over distributions, cleaning up problems instead of fostering a habitat for more to grow, extensive vetting process and continued followup on whom receives assistance and ability to rescind payments for not adhering to responsible use of social programs
493	Not upzoning neighborhoods or blindly approving high rise "luxury" units that worsen the affordability issue.
494	Do not change the fabric and history of Evanston by rezoning residential property lots.
495
496

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
497
498
499
500
501	Top issues should be keeping seniors in the community
502
503	Just build more. Loosen restrictions on land use and developers so they can build what they deem most fit for the lot/area, and get more units build. The city should be DOING LESS and letting the market DO MORE to increase supply, unshackle developers and builders, and stop worrying about equity in all things. Take a look at how that worked out for our schools - they are awful and the attrition has been huge in the past 5 years. Stop meddling and let the market work as it wishes.
504
505
506	Create new low income house for the poor low income residents that last into perpetuity as "The poor ye shall have always"
507	More low income affordable housing
508	Establish Dental Services for Seniors
509
510	Utilize old city Building to build tiny homes that are affordable - preferably for seniors
511
512
513
514
515
516
517	Even the existing housing options that are supposed to abide by the 30% guidelines are failing its residents. When COVID hit and my income dropped by 50%, by rent did not decrease. Now that I have a college aged child, the money she earns during the summer for college is counted towards the household income, making the amount the 30% is calculated from greater than it actually is. The money she earned was solely her money for college stuff, and furthermore earned over a three month period, not year round. My calculated rent is year round. Lastly, the 30% is calculated on pretax income which is insane. If 20% of my check is gone based on FICA, MC etc, the actual percentage of income being spent on rent is more like 47.
518
519
520

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
521
522
523	stop trying to ram lutifamily houses into the few remaining single-family neighborhoods. There are vacant commercial building on Green Bay road that could easily become multifamily housing that is transit friendly. There are vacant lots as you drive into town on Emerson; there is other abandoned commercial property throughout town, sue that first which does not displace anyone and does not dispel existing single-family neighborhoods.
524	I've experience when buying a house, even though I have a house realtors have a habit of making a price is higher for minorities and then I will send a friend in Dubai to make an offer on the same house to ask about that particular property and it's a lot lower. I think the city of Monica certain real estate broker is your company still do this practice.
525	Help enforce fair housing laws to ensure access to affordable housing.
526
527	1. Verify the 30% number. After eliminating the large number of NU students and retired persons with little or no "income", I suspect the number will meet or exceed the 25-30% goal set out in the plan. I would really like to see the answer to this suggestion rather than have the comment buried amongst all others.
528	My recommendations fall within these objectives.
529	More affordable single family homes as well. Preserve the single family homes that already are more affordable, focus multi units closer to areas where existing multi units are.
530	Do NOT change our residential zoning from R1 to R 4!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
531
532
533	Among many things, please change the building code to allow single stair buildings (for buildings up to 6 storys). Also, consider an approach to density that fills in major corridors with human-scale (up to 6-7 storys).
534	Do not allow developers to turn modest single family homes into expensive multi units (duplexes, four plexes). Do not remove single family zoning.
535	Do not change the residential zoning laws!
536	Taking a slow, incremental approach to assess impact of changes on neighborhoods
537	Evanstons arterial streets cannot support a greater population and increased density.
538
539	Keeping neighborhood character
540	Remove obstacles.to creating affordable housing for young families with school age children.
541	Maximize the service to existing residents which includes preserving the value of their substantial real estate investments which is the case for nearly every income range.
542	Protect current single family homes, already a limited portion of Evanston's housing stock, and the preferred housing for the youngh families we want to live here.

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
543	Leave R1 zoning ALONE!
544	Protect the character of Evanston and prevent over-urbanization.
545
546
547
548	Help seniors and lower income residents by developing home maintenance and housing repair programs and special grants for longtime homeowners, so that they can get help in maintaining a safe, up-to-date, and comfortable home that enables them to remain in their homes and therefore Evanston.
549	Take steps to reduce property taxes in order to reduce housing cost burden.
550	Retain qualities that distinguish Evanston from other options.
551	Study existing housing supply that can be subsidized before embarking on new construction.
552	More Affordable housing option for low income over 60yrs of age
553
554	Let's keep the affordable homes we have and prevent further displacement. Let's prioritize this as we consider new buildings especially "starter homes," a term not seen or emphasized in this document. This is imperative to home ownership, especially for families that will bring children to our schools
555	I don't disagree with Evanston creating more affordable housing, however I oppose the way the city council wants to do so - with huge giveaways to developers and blanket upzoning. I don't believe there is sufficient evidence that the upzoning plan will be successful in such a small, densely populated city as Evanston that already has a luxury cache. Focus on enticing business back, get busses running at times residents could actually use them (after 8pm so I can use to get home from Space, Cahn Auditorium, or new playhouse!!!) ESPECIALLY BECAUSE THE CITY COUNCIL REFUSES TO ADDRESS THE PARKING ISSUES! You can be as progressive as you want to try to be (and I want Evanston to keep its progressives) but the way the USA and especially nearby towns use their cars, if the parking isn't immediately convenient to where they want to go, they're not coming! Downtown Wilmette works with its small center, and LOW buildings where people can see where they want to go from where they park most of the time. Also I want to protect residents more from displacement than I've indicated because I don't want the City Council to take this as evidence that I agree with the details of how to achieve their housing plan - I do not support the blanket upzoning plan. The city council and city management need to come up with new ideas to suit Evanston and its specific challenges and highlights and not pass legislation not supported by a large portion of the population and specifically introduced, modeled and pushed by Connections and its advocacy arm with the mayor's specific support because it's an established org with a high profile board and dozens of millions at its disposal, spreading a cookie cutter plan around the nation to cities who want to be seen as progressive. Again, I appreciate what Connections has done and continues to do - but their advocacy plan and the mayor's support for the upzoning plan as the best way to solve the affordable housing shortage problem in Evanston is short sighted and misplaced.
556	Continue to strengthen reparations payouts and make it easier to apply.

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
557	Remove barriers to unrelated people living in the same home
558
559	Leave single-family housing neighborhoods alone, rather than change zoning to stuff more residents into them in order to increase property tax revenue.
560
561
562	Approve the high rise at 605 Davis!
563	Leave R1 zoning alone
564	Encourage condo construction
565
566
567
568
569	Preserving neighborhood character needs to be considered also.
570	Improve energy efficiency in existing affordable housing through tax incentives, waive parking space requirements for new affordable housing, expand ground coverage and height along transportation corridors.
571
572
573
574	More robust discussion and disclosure on these issues.
575	Preserve R1 and do not broaden exceptions
576
577
578
579	Rent control!
580	Preserve historic housing, do not allow developers to raze Evanston's beautiful old homes. Preserve the 31% of single family homes.
581
582

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
584	Enable people to add livable space to their garages in the form of coach houses. This would require review/approval for adequate utilities and parking, though I believe it would be the best compromise to preserve our historical architecture while expanding affordable housing. I would also encourage enabling developers to replace older wood frame housing with more modern construction that represents the affluence and quality of life of Evanston so long as affordable coach houses are also built on the same property..
585	Do not add to population density
586
587
588	We should be limiting the height of buildings throughout Evanston, especially in commercial areas. Those of us who live in Evanston purchased here because we like the way Evanston is or the as. We should limit height of buildings in downtown Evanston, the Central st, Dempster and Main Street business districts. We don't need more. housing units built in Evanston. We do not need more expensive retail space in Evanston.
589	Historic housing and building preservation
590	Lower property taxes!
591	Mixed income housing primarily in vacant lot areas of the city. Must preserve no more than 3 unrelated rule.
592
593	We need low-rise solutions to these problems that are truly oriented towards affordability and maintaining the character of our town. We do not need more developer-enriching high rises with inadequate parking that don't suit families. I strongly object to blanket up zoning of the entire town. I vigorously object to the current iteration of Envision Evanston 45 and the way the mayor is trying to get around laws to enact it. Development is very possible in an aesthetic way – it just might not make developers as rich.
594
595
596	Focus new development near transit and already dense housing.
597
598
599	Protect existing housing from demolition
600
601
602
603	Create budgets for infrastructure improvements to support additional development. Including community services, traffic and utilities
604

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
605	The zoning explanations need to be a lot clearer, ie, have more detail. I still do not understand net my side of my block of Central St is not zoned as residential, though there is only one building, on one corner, with a business in it. All other buildings are solely residential. What plans are there for my block that no one seems to know or discuss? Mine is just one block needing answers, how many other are there? If schools are going to close, what will be done with the buildings and land that might be part of the zoning and planning? What about the Morton Center and its land? What are the sources of this plans counts and measures underpinning the proposal and why are they apropos to predictions, recommendations, and ongoing measures and monitoring? I
606	Creating a housing stock in terms of affordability that mirrors a profile of the incomes earned by all those who are employed by public and private (profit and nonprofit) employers within Evanston. Everyone who works here should be able to house their family here if they wish to. Minimizing commutes also reduces air pollution from cars, improves on-time arrival at work, decreases turnover, and increases worker satisfaction.
608
609	Property tax relief
610	Protect value, and what is valued, in existing residences and neighborhoods
611
613
614	The City Council should NOT effectively eliminate R1 and R2 zoning by allowing 2- to 4-unit buildings to be constructed where detached single-family houses exist. To achieve the needed economies of scale, attract special financing, and attracted the need professional property management, affordable house should be constructed in building that provide at least 20-30 or more units of affordable housing. Also, to save money for the residents of affordable housing (by such residents not needing a car), affordable housing should be constructed near transportations centers, shopping, and services.
615	I am in favor of upzoning by right in ALL of Evanston
616	Make developers meet the HUD Fair Market Rents for at least 30% of units in any new developments in perpetuity. You have historically made deals that only benefit the developers who want to create more "luxury" high rises. Affordable = HUD FMR. Look it up.
617
618	There should be protection from multi unit houses being built in areas where they don't directly exist.

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
619	I do not support upzoning the city to allow houses to be torn down and replaced with bigger development. This will create zero affordable housing. In fact it will only create more luxury high-priced development and contribute to gentrification and the displacement of long-time homeowners. Also studying "just cause eviction"? Excuse me, we've had many meetings about that, and passing something like that would do a lot to encourage small landlords to not take a risk on supplying "naturally occurring affordable housing", because they risk ending up having to prove to a court that someone is a bad tenant. Why would any landlord choose to accept that risk? More likely they would simply tighten up their standards and avoid renting to anyone with blemishes on their history. Achieving exactly the opposite effect than intended.
620	Consider upzoning, limited ADU construction, zoning changes to increase density while balancing the needs of green space and natural elements in all neighborhoods. Consider housing assistance and guaranteed income initiatives. Think outside the box and consider ways to connect neighborhoods so lower income people aren't confined to neighborhoods with fewer resources. Think of ways to increase financial literacy among young people so they start young working toward financial goals. Find ways to get everyone in the community of Evanston involved in the community. Neighbors help neighbors.
621	Prioritize maintaining single family homes. Evanston is already zoned 67% multifamily and is in danger of becoming way too dense.
622	The City Council should NOT effectively eliminate R1 and R2 zoning by allowing 2- to 4-unit buildings to be constructed where detached single-family houses exist. To achieve the needed economies of scale, attract special financing, and attract the needed professional property management, affordable housing should be constructed in buildings that provide at least 20-30 or more units of affordable housing. Also, to save money for the residents of affordable housing (by such residents not needing a car), affordable housing should be constructed near transportations centers, shopping, and services.
623
624
625	All else being equal, yes protect residents from displacement. However, all else isn't always equal. Sometimes people make financial decisions that are detrimental to this goal.
626
627	No up zoning!!!!
628
629	To provide incentives for lowering rents so people can afford to stay here.
630	Stop private equity firms from buying properties, or receiving them via a transfer.
631	SPECIFIC Data that supports what housing is needed and for whom. When I answer these questions, it is related to what EVANSTON as A CITY will do - not non profits - Objective should be social housing.
632
633	Reduce Property Taxes and Sales Taxes. Increase Population Density with high rise buildings.
634	Maintain healthy city-university relationships by maintaining transition zones as is and otherwise protecting the residential feel of the neighborhood adjacent to Northwestern

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
635	Move if you can't afford to live here
636	I would agree with the last two questions if you there was a policy of investment in permant housing rather than the idea that turning our city over to market forces is going produce affordable units. We need a reasonable discussion that helps existing evanston residents. Tax give aways to developers only aggravates the situation because the city has less money to help with rent or ownership programs. Ownership programs are essential if you want to start creating real wealth for lower income working families and individuals. Also, we need a baseline of what it costs to buy into Evanston today. I would guess there is a great % of people who can not afford to purchase thier home again, still have a mortgage and water taxes, maintenance, insurance all weigh heavy on the budget. This is an issue with many facets.
637	Affordable housing needs charity money and cannot be handled as a normal part of the housing market
638	Support direct cash payment over new programs. Avoid use of already limited public lands for residential development.
639
640
641
642	Force Northwestern to either rehab and use the vacant buildings it owns or give them up so they ca be made available as part of the housing inventory and back on the property tax roll. Recognize that affordable housing will come through subsidized and rent controlled properties and NOT by allowing developers to build market priced multi-unit properties.
643
644	Housing Advocates recommend: Add direct language for "by-right development" in the zoning-update strategy. Make it more than "allow different housing types" – prescribe that certain housing types (e.g. multi-unit, ADUs, missing middle) are permitted by-right under specified conditions. - Why: The more specificity and support for upzoning we can build in the strategic housing plan process, the easier it will be to pass a strong zoning code
645	Missing middle multi-units should be by right.under specified conditions
646
647	Maintain single family atmosphere in current single family areas
648
649	Careful consideration of unintended consequences for new developments. Focus on goals for lower cost housing balanced by maintaining the diversity of housing options and livability in the community.
650
651
652	Creating more housing - at all income bands - must be #1. The other two are crucial but the City has less control over.
653

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
654	Encourage private development. All the proposed school closings will send people fleeing from Evanston, we may have more than ample housing
655	Another objective should be to maintain the charm and character of Evanston. This goal is much maligned among some in the community with strong ideological views. Look around you - what makes Evanston unique is the interesting vintage architecture and treasured historical neighborhoods. We are not Northbrook or Buffalo Grove. We have a rich heritage that should be preserved and embraced instead of criticized and ultimately destroyed. A balance needs to be achieved between preserving naturally occurring affordable housing, protecting residents from displacement, and adding new housing in locations where it makes sense to build. I do not believe that supply side housing in desirable places like Evanston will result in lower housing costs. Reference all the teardowns that have resulted in near million dollar homes as case in point. Another objective (or at least acknowledgement as context) is to do something to lower Evanston's high property tax rate. As someone who rented in Evanston for 32 years, I can assure you that the property taxes were figured into my rent.
656	Maintaining flexibility
657
658	Make Accessory Dwelling Units that are newly constructed by homeowners that are in transit friendly locations and rented affordably property-tax exempt to create affordable supply and increase density while helping homeowners INSTEAD OF LUXURY DEVELOPERS. .
659	Ensure that essential infrastructure accommodates any changes
660	Stop the madness of high rises!
661
662	Eliminate parking minimums to allow for cheaper housing to be built overall and also for more housing to be built in the space that would otherwise be for car storage
663	How will the city of Evanston actually create new housing? Is this to suggest subsidized affordable housing or allowing developers to create housing. If it's the former, I would not be against it. If we're suggesting that developers fill this gap, it is unlikely to be affordable
664	Discourage investors from buying affordable housing and renting to students at very high rates. Keep the 3 unrelated person rule. Maintain R1 zoning and T1 and T2 transition districts near Northwestern.
665
666	Make it easier to repurpose existing housing to accommodate multiple families. Given that there is limited land available to create new housing, it is important that land-use laws allow multiple families to live on the same lot or in the same house.
667	Preserve moderately price single-family homes! Discourage demolition of homes that are half as much as new construction.
668
669	govern with fiscal responsibility minimizing property taxes
670
671	any public subsidy money used should create permanently affordable housing and use the Community Land Trust model to achieve this goal

#	I also recommend the following objective(s):
672	Prevent density increase while addressing affordable housing
673	stop trying to change the character of our community
674
675
676	Protect naturally occurring moderate home ownership homes from being incentivized for demolition. Blanket rezoning will do this. The incentives are too great for luxury developers.
677	Recognize that developments with 4k rents for 2BD drive up the median rent no matter if they have 20% affordable units

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Preserve affordable housing units
1	I recommend protecting less intense use of land. Protect single-family and two-family zoning districts.
2
3	Adaptive reuse is an excellent strategy to promote but should explicit focus on the creation of below-mkt and missing middle housing
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17	Change zoning to allow more vertical buildings
18
19
20
21	Rich people pay more taxes. Distribute the funds to the low income people.
22
23
24
25
26
27
28	Support landlords of affordable houses so they can keep operating in Evanston. Less property tax?

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Preserve affordable housing units
29
30
31
32
33
34
35
36
37
38
39
40
41	Put no more environmental regulations onto owners of multi-unit housing so they can minimize rent increases. Secondly, cut City spending to lower prop tax so that will pass thru to tenants thru lesser rent increases over time.
42
43
44	Lower property tax
45
46
47
48
49	Make sure that the development's owners are not trying to build more revenue for themselves by demolishing the building and properties to build single family homes to quadruple their money and build two or three single family homes or town homes to make billions off of Evanston. I also think Northwestern University should begin paying taxes among repairing the harm to black generations of born and raised Evanston students who earn acceptance into Northwestern "Free Tuition" to also help to repair the harm and build generational wealth when students earn their advanced degrees and this include the Garrett Seminary School as well that is located on the Northwestern University Campus. -Novel Concept---.> can definitely bring in more revenue for the City of Evanston.

"Affordable housing" would need to be subsidized to the tune of 30-40% to bring actual rents/mortgage payments into the "affordable" range. I am an architect and builder living and working in Evanston for over 20 years and am extremely in touch with all of the limiting factors.

211	Mandate that all rental property owners must have a third of rental units in every size category anchored to minimum wage, such that monthly rent never exceeds 25% of monthly income for minimum wage workers no matter how many bedrooms. Jacking up prices on multi bedroom units should be considered discrimination against families with children, and /or households with disabled person--both protected classes. Ban rental price-fixing. ALSO: Do not allow rental buildings to be sold to buyers who intend to convert the property to condos or a single-family home. If a buyer wants a SFH they can buy a property that is already a SFH. They should not be allowed to buy a rental building just so they can evict residents who have done nothing wrong. People who have been evicted for this should receive damages from the city for having allowed it, fines should be charged to the property owners who perpetrated it. It should be acknowledged as the injustice it is.

The sister and sole surviving owner sold the building in the middle of our lease. We all had decisions to make and it was tougher for the tentant that was retired and the one that was close to retiring. I'm saying all this to say that to preserve affordable housing there could be programs that gives tentant rights to buy their building which the almost retired was prepared to do. instead, it was a private sale to an investor who flipped the building and sold it for twice what they bought it for. The investor updated each unit with high-end appliances and fixtures and raised the rent $800. What was affordable began unaffordable and soon, the entire neighborhood raised rent to match.

601
602
603	Provide a form based code for the city
604
605
606	Where additional housing units in neighborhoods formerly zoned R1 are contemplated, only allow them where the net effect will be to increase the average affordability of the neighborhood housing. So where land value is high, allow developers to add units if the new units will be affordable; but where land is cheap, developers cannot if the new units will make the neighborhood more expensive, depleting the supply of NOAH.
607
608
609
610	Strategic downzoning; NOAH overlay districts; push to revise county RE assessment to consider condition more; limit buy-to-rent investment/speculation

612

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Preserve affordable housing units
614	The City Council should NOT effectively eliminate R1 and R2 zoning by allowing 2- to 4-unit buildings to be constructed where detached single-family houses exist. To achieve the needed economies of scale, attract special financing, and attract the need professional property management, affordable house should be constructed in building that provide at least 20-30 or more units of affordable housing. Also, to save money for the residents of affordable housing (by such residents not needing a car), affordable housing should be constructed near transportations centers, shopping, and services.
615
616	Developers should have to pay into subsidies to support affordable housing in Evanston.
617
618
619	The city should work with landlords rather than continually propose anti-landlord proposals like "just cause eviction" and higher and higher building registration fees. Property taxes need to not be raised as those increased expenses get passed on to tenants, making housing less affordable in Evanston.
620

632
633
634
635	Cut city costs that are wasteful
636	Do not upzone our districts which have the smaller homes and lots- by increasing the value that a developer can extract from land by building expensive condos-townhomes and rentals. We need to run our own affordable housing program, give the land, pick evanston based manager like reba place or sepa. There are many more options and this initiative deserves time-we should plan on this discussion going through 2026
637
638
639
640
641
642
643
644	Create a neighborhood prioritization plan: Use the census-tract data to prioritize specific areas for preservation, expansion, and anti-displacement measures. Include a map or ward-level strategy to ensure historically marginalized neighborhoods are protected. Please replace uses of "explore..." with stronger and more direct language like "create."
645	Create a neighborhood prioritization plan, with specific areas for preservation, expansion and anti displacement measures. Have a ward level strategy.. protect affordability in 6th ward.
646
647
648	Do not recommend blanket upzoning. The most affordable housing is typically existing, older building stock.
649	Where affordable housing NEEDS replacement, make 1st redevelopment option the preservation of affordability for that site. Failing to satisfy this criterion, could consider other appropriate options that suit the neighborhood.

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Preserve affordable housing units
650	These ideas make sense to me... From the Urban Institute: "Preserving affordable housing is an exercise in sustainability. Affordable housing is not a one-time construction project; it requires flexibility as neighborhoods and needs change. As the need for affordable housing grows, those working to expand and preserve our affordable housing stock". 667	Don't incentivize demolition of naturally occurring home ownership homes by deregulating zoning. Developers will demolish attainable lower priced homes to build expensive duplexes. Another strategy - help the local landlords who offer naturally occurring affordable housing, not just luxury developers.
668
669	restrict developer aquisition in low income areas, don't allow single family homes to be demo'ed and turned into luxury townhomes (upzoning that does not increase affordability), encourage single family reno to 2 or 3 flat (not expensive townhomes!)
670

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Preserve affordable housing units
672	Keep what we already have and maintain to the extent possible. Do not build more with the hope it will create more affordable housing.
673
674
675
676	Assist smaller landlords of naturally occurring affordable housing to remodel. Prioritize these landlords. Protect naturally occurring affordable housing from luxury developers. Do not blanket up zone as land values will increase as well as rents and taxes.
677	Repeal the Healthy Buildings Ordinance electric conversion requirement

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Create new housing units to address gaps in the supply
1	I think the City can look to underutilized parcels, both owned and private, and seek to attract developers interested in making units available to prospective homeowners. I do not want Evanston to be overdeveloped and awash in low income or market rate rental apartments.
2
3	On all of the questions above with which I "somewhat agree," I think that the City's promotion must focus on development of the kind of units we want (below-mkt and missing middle), NOT on creating new housing units for their own sake. The idea of employer-assisted housing should be broadened to include putting pressure on NU to add on-campus (not off-campus housing), perhaps by limiting the number of NU students who can live off-campus. NU may not prefer the look of a high-rise on-campus dorm but it could free up a significant number of off-campus affordable/missing middle units currently being used by students.

374	These comments address Strategy 2.5 (Update the zoning code to facilitate housing development and allow different housing types) in the draft Housing4All, Strategic Housing Plan. The last year of debate on the draft Comprehensive Plan for Evanston revealed the complexity of the zoning issues in Evanston, the nuance that is required to address those issues and the materially different views that various Evanston residents have about those issues. The City Council wisely put the proposed zoning changes on a different legislative track from the Comprehensive Plan. The upcoming zoning deliberations by the City Council (which have not yet started on its separate track), and the public's participation in those deliberations, will no doubt be robust. Strategy 2.5 of the Strategic Housing Plan states, among other things, that (i) the zoning code can play a pivotal role in facilitating new housing development, (ii) tools such as reducing parking requirements, lowering minimum lot sizes and allowing multi-unit development in more zoning districts can remove regulatory barriers that currently limit the city's housing supply, and (iii) these reforms can make projects more financially feasible, encourage a wide variety of housing types and create opportunities for denser, more walkable and transit-oriented neighborhoods. During the last year, while the proposed zoning changes were still linked with the draft Comprehensive Plan, many members of the public responded with significant concerns about the proposed changes and the increased density that would be allowed by them. Those concerns included the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>•Rezoning to allow greater density, in and of itself, will not reduce housing unaffordability or housing gaps. Many residents made the point that, without substantial federal or state subsidies for affordable housing, the City would be relying in substantial part on profit-motivated real estate developers to produce the new, denser housing and most of this new housing would likely be "market rate" not affordable to lower income households.</li> <li>•If multi-unit developments are permitted in R1 (single family) zoning districts, those housing units would not be subject to the City's Inclusionary Housing Ordinance.</li> <li>•Evanston is already a densely developed community, and significantly greater density could put severe strains on public services, create greater congestion and adversely affect the unique character of Evanston and its neighborhoods.</li> <li>•Reducing parking requirements across the board in various residential zoning districts would increase on-street parking, when many neighborhoods have narrow streets and already tight street parking availability.</li> <li>•Allowing greater density, and specifically allowing multi-unit development in the R1 (single family) zoning districts, could have the unintended consequence of increasing housing displacement by making it attractive for developers to acquire existing single family homes (some of which are naturally occurring affordable housing units) for demolition and redevelopment with multi-unit structures on a single R1 lot, each of which (as new construction) would be less affordable than the existing single family structure.</li> <li>•Blanket zoning changes that would have the effect of changing the essential character of specific neighborhoods could further destabilize Evanston's housing market.</li> <li>•Any zoning changes need to be evaluated in light of Evanston's historical and architectural distinction and should be consistent with its historic preservation policies.</li> <li>•Any greater density could adversely affect the interests of Evanston residents to light and air and could interfere with existing and future solar power projects. These public comments were worthy of serious</li> </ul>

472	Consider Small Multifamily Affordable zoning and whether this would assist with displacement concerns around upzoning in 5th Ward / South Evanston. Similar to New Orleans ordinance which has been somewhat successful. Evaluate economics to see if it will work. https://nola.gov/next/community-assets-and-investment/topics/policy/small-multi-family,-affordable/ . Also, consider design guidelines for new missing middle homes. I think many of the opponents are not engaging with nuance or in good faith, but for those who are concerned about appearance, this ought to make a difference. It might be a nightmare process to get them approved but I think it may be worthwhile. Also consider putting together some kind of loan guarantees or credit enhancement for potential missing middle developers who are willing to do the SMFA concept.

527	A pipe dream. Given the limited available vacant or underutilized parcels, unless you are going to allow multiple high rise buildings, there is no way to come close to the stated goal of 3000-5000 new residents by 2035. I recommend you address the condition of much of the existing housing stock to improve the quality of life for current residents before you consider what to do to bring in more people. And unless you're going to create substantial housing subsidies for "affordable" housing, the only new construction will be for market-rate housing. Admit Evanston is a high demand location where there will always be more buyers than sellers so prices will remain high. Let's improve the quality of life for Evanstonians before trying to save the world.
528	The strategies under this Objective 2 are insufficient to create the volume of new units that we need. 2.1, 2.2, and 2.3 are the ones the City has control over and do not rely on either current property owners or developers to engage in achieving the City's goals. However, the City cannot meet its goals without such engagement. We need some new goals that include things like: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>•Develop a clear strategy for where and how development of an increased number of units will be supported by the City. This should include planning steps around how to encourage the development defined in the Comprehensive Plan for Primary, Secondary, and Neighborhood Corridor Segments and initial goals to quantify how much development could be supported where. It should also include a planning process for gathering community input on the different corridor segments.</li> <li>•Include a strategy for cultivating interest and engagement among current property owners and developers, including both incentives for the types of development needed along the corridor segments and disincentives for other types of development (including zoning code changes), as well as a public relations campaign that highlights the benefits of developing in Evanston.</li> <li>•Move strategy 3.9, Explore rental assistance expansion, to be under Objective 2 as well—as a way of increasing the number of people living in units they can afford. 3.9 really addresses both the create question and the protect question. If a strategy for long-term subsidies can be formed, this can be a way of meeting the 3,000- to 5,000-unit goal.</li> <li>•Set goals for the number of units to be created by certain points within the Housing4All timeline, along with the costs that the City would be expected to incur to support those units (including rental subsidies). Use these goals and projected costs to find revenue sources to fund these units, understanding that political and economic factors are unpredictable and whatever goals are set will be aspirational.</li> </ul>

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Create new housing units to address gaps in the supply
533	Establish pattern books for ADUs, make the entitle process for Missing Middle Housing by-right, allow up-to 8 plexes citywide, we should be more concerned with the form of the buildings (house-scale, fits into the character) than the number of units.

537	The housing market is regional. The "Gap" is phoney.
538
539	Faster and more predictable permitting and inspection process
540	Ensure by-right development in the zoning code update.
541
542	Other than moderate rezoning of commercial propeties on sections of Chicago Avenue to multiuse two to three story housing/retail uses, no extreme efforts to create middle housing is necessary. Evanston already has more middle housing than all the other neighboring suburbs. Evanston has a shortage of detached single family homes and any strategies that make that situation worse will make Evanston a less desirable place to live.l .
543
544
545
546	Housing is a human right and should not be directly tied to employment.

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Create new housing units to address gaps in the supply
554	These are blanket strategies. While several are likely helpful, it is hard to support most of these fully without details. I do not support development of new housing "at any cost" as, though it will increase housing, this will make Evanston more expensive overall, at least in the short run.
555	Upzoning should be dead last as well as sale/transfer of air rights. If being considered, it needs extreme care and voting referendum by residents with EXTREME commitment from city to make sure all residents and owners are well aware of the changes being proposed

580	Do not allow developers access to tear down historic single family homes.
581
582	Updating the zoning code to facilitate and allow different housing types is something I do not support. We have a lot of different types of housing already. Allowing an apartment building to go up next to a single family home violates that single family homeowners rights to protest his investment. For most people, that single family home is their biggest investment. Degrading their view, their light, their privacy and creating potential sewer, electrical and water issues is grossly unfair.

598
599	Consider infill housing & transit oriented developments.
600	Encourage multi-family apartment buildings in transit corridors
601
602
603
604	Look at examples in Europe. There are attractive complexes built from shipping containers. Tiny house neighborhoods are good, too.

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Create new housing units to address gaps in the supply
605
606	There are many excellent ideas in this plan, and I support them all. I'd recommend combining the goal of providing affordable housing for all who work in Evanston (workforce housing) with point 2.7 above to partner with local employers to create some of that housing, perhaps on their own real estate or in underutilized facilities.
607
609
610	Disincentivize vacant land/spaces; stop enabling development that longterm adds to increased land values and upward pricing. Proactively begin working with resident groups, not advocacy groups that view residents as obstacles, to identify supportable sites and tools.
611	Evanston has enough people and buildings, please, no more development other than creative reuse, and no more high rise buildings!
613
614	The City Council should NOT effectively eliminate R1 and R2 zoning by allowing 2- to 4-unit buildings to be constructed where detached single-family houses exist. To achieve the needed economies of scale, attract special financing, and attract the need professional property management, affordable housing should be constructed in buildings that provide at least 20-30 or more units of affordable housing. Also, to save money for the residents of affordable housing (by such residents not needing a car), affordable housing should be constructed near transportation centers, shopping, and services.
615
616	The problem isn't zoning or lack of housing, it's the cost. Developers are pricing out families in Evanston.
617
618

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Create new housing units to address gaps in the supply
619	To create more “missing middle housing”, we have to identify and support projects that are of sufficient scale to keep the per-unit costs down. A good example would be the 90 townhouses that were built in the early 2000s at the corner of South Boulevard in Chicago Ave., where a Dominick’s grocery store used to be located. These projects could be supported through the current planned development process, where zoning relief is given on a case-by-case basis, WITHOUT blanket upzoning of residential districts. If we start upzoning residential districts, we will only end up seeing smaller, more affordable houses and 2 flats torn down and replaced with bigger luxury duplexes and multi-unit buildings. This has been the history of gentrifying neighborhoods. Have a look at Wicker Park. It used to be a lot of small houses, now lots of tall skinny condos. Long-time residents all forced out.
622	The City Council should NOT effectively eliminate R1 and R2 zoning by allowing 2- to 4-unit buildings to be constructed where detached single-family houses exist. To achieve the needed economies of scale, attract special financing, and attract the needed professional property management, affordable housing should be constructed in buildings that provide at least 20-30 or more units of affordable housing. Also, to save money for the residents of affordable housing (by such residents not needing a car), affordable housing should be constructed near transportations centers, shopping, and services.

631	Tell NU to fix up their empty houses, and rent them, or sell them. Tell HACC to rent their empty units that have been sitting for YEARS - rent them or sell them to City of Evanston. COE needs to take a leadership role in getting housing to the people. DO NOT leave this up to the private market. Money needs to be seriously set aside in a housing fund that is TRANSPARENT to the residents. Not given to a non-profit that can hide the books.

635	Take over buildings that are not used on the campus of NW. there are multiple buildings that could be used
636	These questions require more explanation as to what you you are proposeing 2.1 sounds like privatization of public assets and I would not support that unless it involved a public/private partnership and or land trust. 2.3 I would like to see the rubric of who would qualify and what help. 2.4 is undefined and what does it mean? 2.5 Evanston already has the most housing types per neighborhood than any surrounding suburbs and probably in the country for an community our size and acreage-everything is relative. This statement is code for should we upzone the entire city. I dont agree with that as a means to affordabilitiy. 2.6 Again, if it means giving staff the right to make all decisions I believe we need a well written zoning code which brings us closer to an agreed upon vision of our city. I don't think residents should be subject to staff allowing devloperment like the NOYEs st shipping containers or buildings and homes which are way to large for their lots. We supposedly have a CARP plan and respecting our green space and light is part of that idea.

641
642
643
644	Add direct language for “by-right development” in the zoning-update strategy. Make it more than “allow different housing types” – prescribe that certain housing types (e.g. multi-unit, ADUs, missing middle) are permitted by-right under specified conditions.
645	Different housing types should by right be permitted under certain conditions

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Create new housing units to address gaps in the supply
647	Maintain the existing flavor of Evanston. Do not make us into Chicago. Single family is a relatively small percentage of Evanston. Maintain it. Force NU to relinquish property to the city to expand the tax base and expand dwelling units. Do not undermine housing values and permit shadowing existing single family homes. Move slowly and organically. Do not change single family zoning in strongly single family areas. Be cautious. Unintended consequences in this area cannot be reversed.
648	Develop under utilized areas , primarily near transportation
649	Where adaptive reuse involves religion based structures or other institutions, especially near business districts, consider business use if it makes sense, in order to increase tax revenue.
650	As per 2.2 - Bring Reba Fellowship to the table! They are amazing property managers!
651
652	zoning code modifications are the easiest tool in the city's full control that will directly lead to more housing!
653
654	Sell the old civic center - develop the park area as well. Could be over 100 units, create underground parking under the current parking lot. Sell it to a developer.
655	Look at existing open areas and places that make sense for additional units.
656
657
658
659
660
661	We've got plenty of housing. NO MORE DENSITY!!
662
663	Evaluate zoning designation changes based on the prevailing size of housing in the neighborhood, not by changing the density per zoning designation. Do NOT blanket upzone the city. This is a city of different neighborhoods
664
665
666	Make it easier to repurpose properties into multi-family houses.

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Create new housing units to address gaps in the supply
667	ADUs, adding garden/basement units, land trusts. NOT deregulating our zoning so we get the highest price luxury units. 605 Davis will charge $3000 for a STUDIO. $4,000 for a 3 bedroom, $6,000 3-bedroom.
668
669	focus on keeping existing SFH from being converted to expensive townhomes, etc. encourage single family to 2-3 flat conversion
670
671
672
673	There aren't gaps in supply. We have adequate housing supply reflecting all price ranges. Stop lying about this.
674
675
676	Create ADUs, basement/garden units and homes. Have a better handle on vacancy rates and look at filling unused units.
677	Prioritize Adaptive reuse over new construction

#	I also recommend the following strategies to Protect residents from displacement
1	The City's proposed zoning reforms are clearly the biggest driver of potential displacement at the moment. Start by ending that now. Beyond that, look to contain the ever increasing tax burden in Evanston. Work with 65 and 202 to create schools that actually attract intelligent families and not just the low income.
2
3	Limit the number of new units that can be built in areas where land is cheapest, to prevent pricing out/gentrification in those areas and distribute new development more evenly/equitably
4	Manage the City Of Evanston budget and stick to the plan. It would help if we can stop increasing costs!

211	Re. 3.3, Please for the love of all that is holy to you, DO NOT mandate BS financial literacy 'counseling' that is tantamount to victim-blaming. If people can't make ends meet it's probably because they don't have enough income to cover living expenses that are structurally inflated--NOT because they are doing the wrong thing with their money. Please consider the allostatic load of poverty. People who are under the constant strain of simply trying to survive, may not have the physical energy or health required to pack up the children and run to the store themselves, so yes, they use instacart. Same for ordering meals--cooking is time consuming and exhausting and someone who is working all day and caregiving all night needs energetic help to avoid illness, and missed work. People who aren't sleeping enough at night may run late for work and need to take an uber SO THEY DON'T LOSE THEIR JOB. Prescribing a penny-pinching ethos to financially precarious people is a form of gaslighting--psychological abuse. Stop with the victim blaming.

From what i have heard from local architects is that the codes are making it much harder to maintain and renovate the older homes. We should not just be promoting new construction but again, maintaining our older structures to keep houses affordable. any new construction is more expensive and a builder wants to make a profit. The first issue can only be solved by subsidies or handouts or finding people better paying jobs, and the second interferes with an owner's right to keep or sell their property. The harder you make it for landlords, the higher rents will be for everyone else not getting assistance.
528	These are all good suggestions, but their relevance will change over time. Currently, rental assistance is the single most valuable support the City can provide to people struggling with housing costs and should be prioritized--especially given the political priorities of the current administration. 619	I explained earlier how "Just Cause" eviction would result in fewer landlords taking a chance on renting to applicants with "blemishes" on their history. If adopted, landlords would be less inclined to take any risks because if the tenant doesn't work out for whatever reason, the landlord would presumably have to create a whole file and court case just to not renew that lease. Is the goal to encourage or discourage landlords from renting to people who have had some issues in the past?

623	Each increase in "tenant rights" leads to a decrease in developers' and landlords' ability to provide housing. Also, regarding 3.3 above, how would this differ from existing https://www.cityofevanston.org/government/departments/community-development/economic-development/financial-wellness-program and https://fncu.balancepro.org/coaching/housing

#	Anything else you'd like to add regarding Housing4All, the City's strategic housing plan?
1	I am disappointed, but not surprised, to see that the strategic housing plan doubles down on progressive initiatives instead of what is actually good for the Evanston community.
2
3	There is no reason not to be really clear and specific that the city wants to push the development of income-restricted and missing middle housing, since that is our main need. Pushing development of whatever kind of housing that developers want to build, or "leaving it to the market" will not accomplish our goals.
4
6
7	Limit density by preventing exploitation of Evanston by outsiders out to take advantage of our prosperous city. Stop granting variations to builders out to make a buck, no matter how many affordable units they are offering.
8
9	Keep residential zoning the same - do not allow smaller footprint building.
10	Housing is important and City government does play a role, especially through zoning, preservation, and permitting. But the role is and should remain limited. It is an inappropriate use of limited tax funds to subsidize preferred groups or faddish programs (and consultants), or to bind future generations and governments to unsustainable or unaffordable programs.
11

53	1) I am concerned the housing report included students in the cost burdened category. I believe the city should think about students differently than other residents because many students might make less than $36k per year but have many resources providing them financial support. Including the students, significantly over states the number of cost burdened households. 2) While I like the idea of further integrating Evanston, people's choices naturally lead to variations of income among neighborhoods. For example, students like to live near NU but have much lower income than 40-50 year old families, younger single people like to live downtown for nightlife but have lower incomes than family households, etc. The plan seems to want to increase collisions between groups of people in different life stages or living different lifestyles, which I don't think is a valid goal.
54	You don't ask about the 5 goals that "the City of Evanston is committed to achieving" on page 1. By themselves, I would have a hard time agreeing to any of these goals, independently of the plans for achieving them. The "three objectives to achieve these goals" and the "strategies to achieve [those] objectives" provide more specifics, so I am comfortable supporting some of them. Still, I am concerned that those objectives and strategies will be taken only as examples, and that the goals will later be used to justify other objectives and strategies that don't appear in Housing4All.

81	Add more new construction developments which will allow for freeing up smaller less expensive properties as people move up the housing ladder! 146	Evanston is an expensive place to live. I suspect that many of these solutions would require new sources of funds and reprioritizing existing funds without adding new costs for residents would help keep this community affordable for residents. No additional taxes/fees to pay for these ideas.

157	The city is too focused on over-regulation, which is often times at cross purposes of increasing affordability. For example, the new requirements for buildings to combat climate change only increase the cost of housing. Likewise, inclusionary requirements make many developments prohibitive. The city simply needs to increase the supply of housing....stop intervening in the market and making it harder to build housing.

160	I have a friend who had to sell her condo in Rogers Park for a very reduced rate because it was in the same block as a transitional housing unit. We don't need more people begging on the streets of Evanston, driving around at night with music blaring, or letting their homes fall into disrepair. It's very nice that you want to help people, but it can't be at the expense of everyone else. I've seen neighborhoods go downhill fast when these types of things happen.
161	It is difficult to drive around/through Evanston. Evanston is already densely populated. We do not need more density. I can't believe and resident desires this.

#	Anything else you'd like to add regarding Housing4All, the City's strategic housing plan?
211	Wheel taxes and parking tickets, should be anchored to income. Period. Rich and poor should not be charged the same fines. It is insanely unfair for the poorest people (the ones who have no place to park but on the street) to be targeted for fees as a way to make up revenue shortfalls. Why can't the parking app alert people when they have gotten a ticket and allow them to pay the meter late to wipe out the fine? WHY? The only honest answer is that the City wants to run poor / forgetful people out of Evanston (Google "survival brain" COE exacerbates this phenomenon tenfold). If people can't afford to pay a ticket, you double it. If they accumulate three tickets, you immobilize their vehicle. If they can't pay the barnacle fee you tow and impound and basically take a person's transportation to work away from them. Every step along the way, the city increases the destruction to its most vulnerable. Please cease this barbaric practice of punishing victims of structural poverty. If you can't make this city livable for the working poor, this whole 'housing4all' initiative is in bad faith. Lastly: People should be able to live in the communities where they work especially if they are doing public service work. As an Evanston resident, I am barred from working for the City of Chicago, yet Chicago residents face no obstacles to working for COE. At the very least, COE resident-employees should have some form of housing stipend or bonus or discount or housing priority--something, anything. We bring our community knowledge and care to the work and that should be valued.

Housing density it already high in Evanston and there are areas of the city suited to high density without converting the character of many single family home neighborhoods and transforming Evanston into something its residents DO NOT WANT. Keep the character of the town and do not go overboard with development. Evanston's current size is reasonable and makes for a good diverse community. #	Anything else you'd like to add regarding Housing4All, the City's strategic housing plan?
376	We don't need libertarian-level extremes, but the city really needs to get out of the way on development. We shoot down density in our diminished downtown, right next to businesses who need the traffic and our strongest transit hubs. Then we try to upzone parts of the city that don't have the infrastructure or transit to support it. Then we wonder why everything is so expensive and we waste a ton of time and effort wringing our hands over costly interventions that only benefit minorities of minorities. It's absurd.

383	Supporting affordable housing is everyone's desire. Stable schools system must be a goal one. Job creation, better city management and a vibrant town that runs as well as Park Ridge, Niles, Morton Grove, Skokie or Wilmette will provide more jobs and services for all. Do not burden single family home tax payers any longer. Make housing equity for all a regional effort not an Evanston by itself initiative
384	Preserve R1 single family zoning.
385	Evanston's population has actually decreased in recent years, due to a variety of factors. Evanston is the most housing accessible community in all of the North Shore. Evanston cannot be all things to all people. The more that the city and mayor push agendas on existing Residents, the more issues arise. With a broken school district and crippling property taxes, the mayor and city Council seem to be working toward an Evanston for no one, instead of in Evanston for those of us who already try to live here.

#	Anything else you'd like to add regarding Housing4All, the City's strategic housing plan?
441	This plan risks displacing residents with middle or higher income by creating programs that will require many additional taxes and fees to fund. The plan is willing to discard common sense safety (single staircase for example) codes to build more housing. The plan ignores the fact that single family detached housing neighborhoods are desirable and strong due to the stability of long term neighbors/homeowners rather than the more transient residents that adding multifamily rentals would bring. Home owners have incentive to maintain their homes and neighborhoods as investments. Further the plan does not address the affect of changing single family zoning to zoning that allows multiunit buildings on the value of the single family houses. It also does not address how the already congested parking in single family neighborhoods would be addressed. One can increase fees to park but that doesn't create more spaces. The city is willing to divest itself of "unused" city property which cannot be regained if needed in the future. (Think new police station or firehouse) This plan does not address the future of Evanston holistically but only through the lens of funding low income housing.

#	Anything else you'd like to add regarding Housing4All, the City's strategic housing plan?
463	Yes. I think that it is important to recognize that there may be obstacles to implementation of many of the proposed strategies that don't seem to align with the proposed solutions. For example, while ADU's have been allowed for more than 5 years throughout Evanston with few restrictions only a few dozen have been built. Perhaps it would be helpful to determine how many existing coachhouse units we have that are not being rented and to identify the impediments to occupancy and then develop program/incentives to get them rented. This may involve rehab, landlord training, or other options in addition to technical and financial assistance and may allow properties to be leased at lower rents than might be needed for new construction. A similar observation relates to zoning. While a large percentage of residential zoning lots don't meet zoning requirements, I believe that development of any lot that has been subdivided (has a tax id number) can be developed as long as set back requirements are met (or the project is granted any needed variations). As with ADU's, the zoning ordinance was updated a few years ago to make development a bit easier. The two container houses on Grant are a direct result of this zoning change. Over the last 5 years, I can only recall three instances where there was a request to subdivide property to facilitate new residential construction. One was for the Legacy project on Chicago Avenue, the second was to split a large lot into 2 substandard lots (which was approved); one of which is the home of the latest Geometry in Construction house, and the third involved two separate tax parcels on Grant that were considered a single zoning lot under Evanston's code. This subdivision was also approved. Evanston has examples of container houses, prefab tiny houses/cluster cottages (being built on Grant), work/live units and a variety of other housing types that have emerged in recent years - all of which Evanston has been opened to. Clearly, Evanston's building code already allows such innovations. I would hope that safety won't be compromised in the interest of reducing construction costs. The existing Unique Use provision of the zoning code already allows the addition of additional units in single-family districts (although when the City gets to the zoning discussion, ways to simplify the process should be explored). The overall point is that many of the strategies suggested are already possible - they just aren't producing dramatic results.
465
466
467	I think that Evanston is already dense, with a lot of housing options. I like my neighborhood and would not like to see it change significantly. In addition, I think that SW Evanston with large lots and small

509	Keep the landlords informed please as this goes forward. I own a two flat in an area that years ago, after it was built, the zoning was changed and no more apartments were allowed to be built! while I never intend to convert it to a single family home I find that if the "rules" are changed to "two flats have to stay as two flats" and I try to sell my building and someone wants to either tear it down or convert it to a single family home it would diminish the value I could get for my place and that isn't fair. PLEASE RECONSIDER THIS CHANGE.

527	One stated policy goal is to encourage diversity throughout the community. Without evidence of continuing "redlining" efforts by realtors or substantial financial assistance, people will move to where they want and can afford. Moreover, the effort is being thwarted by other local entities. The building of Foster School in the 5th ward, is an effort to re-segregate that area by marketing the school as a neighborhood school and encouraging minorities to move close to the school. This is an area which had become progressively more diverse but the Foster School marketing efforts may have a reverse affect.
528	The plan should include a robust implementation that includes an evaluation of costs that feed into strategies for funding increases. It should also include quantitative goals for both housing preservation and creation of housing (particularly housing for low-income households) over time--at least 5-year and 10-year goals. These should be framed as aspirational and should be reviewed and updated each year based on progress and on economic and political factors. Last, homelessness is not addressed in the plan. We believe that ending homelessness should be a goal of the City. Adding it to this plan as a primary goal would be difficult at this point from a political standpoint. However, I'd be interested in seeing a way to add it as an objective.

532
533	You're doing a lot of great work, I just want to stress two things: making the process of building for smaller scale developers (those who can and will build Missing Middle Scale Housing) easier by simplifying the permitting process and allowing builder denser by-right. A simpler way of saying this is make the development process simpler, easy to navigate, and less expensive (e.g., eliminate parking requirements). Second, focus less on sheer number or floors or units and more on building form - missing middle buildings will fit nicely into most single-family home blocks (many contain duplexes, quadplexes and the odd apartment building already). Oh, and encourage building on underutilized lots. Eg. The Popeyes site should be urban in form, not a drivethrough and not a single story strip mall. In fact, Evanston should consider banning new strip malls and drive throughs (though do so by requiring higher, better uses).
534
535	Do not change the residential zoning laws. We do not want muti unit buildings, with no parking, in our neighborhoods

536	The plan has a whole section devoted to the topic "Evanston's black population has declined" but no similar section on the decline in the white population. I'm happy to see, however, that Evanston remains a very diverse community with a growing Hispanic and Asian communities somewhat displacing both blacks and whites. As indicated in my answers, I prefer a slow incremental approach to any changes using the resources we already have.
537	The Metro area has lost population for decades. Thus, there is less need for expensive housing strategies.
538
539
540	Stop word-smithing and start acting now on creating housing.
541	Terminate it now. It is a ineffective, foolishly motivated study that misses nearly all of the real issues and implications
542	1. Much of the conclusions about the need for senior housing are flawed. Seniors often have other financial resources to pay for housing other than current income so simply using senior incomes as a measure of the need for affordable housing for them seriously overstates the corresponding senior housing gap. The fact that the greatest population increase in the city occurred downtown and was largely due to increase in seniors. 2. The housing gap analysis Figure 8 illustrating Missing Middle Target Households is seriously flawed and misleading. The use of Cook County data as the comparison ignores the fact that the dense urban housing market of Chicago skews the Cook County data. When Chicago data is removed from Cook County, leaving the suburban portion of Cook County that should be the housing market used to compare to Evanston it turns out Evanston has more middle housing, 18.6% than the average of suburban Cook, 16.9%. 3. The overall plan contradicts itself at many turns. It argues for preserving NOAH at the same time it is arguing for policies (upzoning everywhere, changing zoning and building codes) that will encourage developers to demolish and replace NOAH.

544	I would want the City Council to follow the recommendations of the Zoning Committee. While I support aspirational planning, the Zoning Committee has the expertise to assess whether specific changes would lead to unintended consequences, such as increased traffic on residential streets, less available residential parking, destruction of green space, light-blocking urban canyons and general over-urbanization, all which would change the character of Evanston. I would also want professional impact studies to be performed, with the Zoning Committee's oversight, before any changes are enacted. I strongly believe that charging ahead without adequate data is irresponsible. To use a tired cliché that is appropriate here, "The road to hell is paved with good intentions."
545	Helping those who can almost afford to live here is good policy. Those who cannot afford to live in Evanston have other options. The City should stop trying to control the housing market. Those efforts are not in the interest of the taxpayers.

551	This questionnaire is a list of almost 30 programs considered in isolation, with no details about how each would be funded or the extent to which each could (or should) be implemented. It is impossible to provide a meaningful answer without knowing more precisely what one is being asked to endorse. My first observation is that the Housing4All strategic plan was supposed to have provided the basis for the Comprehensive Plan, but it arrived 10 months and 7 days after, too late to influence the drafting of that document. Why? It is better in a few respects than EE2045, in that it acknowledges the financial and political constraints facing our attempts to reduce housing costs. On p. 32 it recommends that Evanston should undertake a survey of its existing structures to see how many are vacant, how many could be adapted (e.g., converted from commercial to residential) and/or subsidized as affordable units). Good advice, but it comes too late. That essential research still hasn't been done. But the biggest problem with Housing4All is that it is a laundry list of programs, many of which are described vaguely, with no specifics about what implementing would entail- e.g.,how much upzoning? Everywhere, or only in some places? What amount of subsidy would each program provide; what are the eligibility requirements for each, etc.). It's as if one had ordered a complex device that has to be assembled from scratch, but the instruction manual was missing when it arrived. It reminds me of a poem by Elizabeth Bishop that describes her observations in travels to various parts of the earth but can find no through line of connection, only a world in which "everything is only connected by 'and' and 'and.'" I have filled out a lot of questionnaires in my 79 years. This is one of the least helpful I have encountered. I am sorry to say this, but it needed to be said.

#	Anything else you'd like to add regarding Housing4All, the City's strategic housing plan?
554	This "plan" is a very broad survey of housing needs, loose goals and some suggested strategies. That's alright as a place to start. At least three things are necessary: One is gathering consistent metrics going forward - measure the same things in the same way. Changing any parameters will skew data and make it nearly useless. Secondly, this is a big undertaking. As the report notes, housing is integral to affordability in Evanston. It touches everything so improvements in housing must be viewed, measured and managed in a more "global" fashion than has been done to date. If this is a priority it must be managed as one, in totality, not in small, disconnected segments. Finally, the interconnectedness of housing, overall affordability and budgets in Evanston must addressed. It is both ironic and telling that this review is being conducted as the City Manager just introduced a proposed budget increase of 13%. All of this is connected. We will not become more affordable or provide enough affordable housing if costs keep going up overall. Evanston must be managed and governed as a City, not just a series of individual programs.

559	We should not make it a goal to provide housing for everyone who would like to move to Evanston. We don't have room for everyone who might want to live here, and we shouldn't screw up what is currently good in an effort to reach an unreachable goal.

Let's protect what we have—beautiful old homes and low income housing, and be smart about where we allow developers to encroach. Living near Northwestern the zoning changes proposed can only result in more luxury dorms, removing zoning protections will attract more luxury development, period.

595
596	Do not change the entire zoning of the city without doing a detailed and credible housing needs assessment. One size fits all is ridiculous for a city of Evanston's size and already very dense development. Sure, I live in a single family home - on a 50' by 180' lot with homes and alley garages on either side of me less than 15' away. Evanston is a suburb with suburban attractions. There is no reason to turn Evanston into a dense and unappealing urban environment.

611	Property taxes are too high, so many people and businesses cannot afford to be here. I'm really sick of big companies owning almost everything commercial and do not trust anything Evanston is trying to do anymore. I don't want more housing or commercial development whether affordable or expensive, to me the point is that we pay a ton of taxes and that Evanston is losing it's value as a town with a soul. Many appealing towns are big on creative reuse of buildings and supporting small unique businesses. Evanston needs to pay attention to what people want and stop pandering to Northwestern and big corporate developers.
613	Absolutely NO upzoning!
614	The City Council should NOT effectively eliminate R1 and R2 zoning by allowing 2- to 4-unit buildings to be constructed where detached single-family houses exist. To achieve the needed economies of scale, attract special financing, and attract the need professional property management, affordable house should be constructed in building that provide at least 20-30 or more units of affordable housing. Also, to save money for the residents of affordable housing (by such residents not needing a car), affordable housing should be constructed near transportations centers, shopping, and services.
615
616	Evanston is too expensive, even for "middle class." In my neighborhood of modest homes, there's a proposed new construction that will be way higher price range than any home in the area. I don't know how we will afford to stay here with increasing taxes and the school nightmare.

623	The Draft seeks to "expand the range of housing options available in all parts of Evanston." This is a flawed policy, because some neighborhoods are more suitable for persons of moderate income-- for example, these people are more likely to need access to transit and nearby retail stores, unlike most higher-income people.
624	Many of these questions are very vague.
627
628	This plan requires more specific and detailed information concerning the actual details of housing in Evanston. Reliance on census estimates is not a good basis for decisions about such an important topic. The best use of our taxpayer dollars is to conduct research about location of types of housing, when housing was built, etc. Without this knowledge a housing plan cannot be realistic and of little actual value. Adopting a plan without the accurate baseline knowledge will only result in damage to the city and to its residents. Please take a few steps back and invest in the necessary research to create a revised plan that Evanston residents will be able to support.

#	Anything else you'd like to add regarding Housing4All, the City's strategic housing plan?
636	Additional Requirements &amp; Considerations                      Large-format zoning maps should be made easily available to residents, along with fair and unbiased presentations of current zoning data. The City should create structured, transparent Q&amp;A; forums where residents can ask questions and receive objective information from independent experts. Any revisions to zoning codes should reflect community goals for families, small businesses, parks, and public health.                      Rethinking Evanston's Growth and Affordability Strategy Evanston is already more built-out and diverse than most communities surrounding Chicago. Future policies must recognize these limits. Density for its own sake is not a solution – thoughtful design, genuine public engagement, and respect for existing neighborhoods are essential to maintaining both affordability and livability. We should look to other cities that are successfully creating affordable housing and learn from their models. However, that requires honesty and transparency from city staff to both the Council and the public. Current approaches – such as the 15% and 20% Inclusionary Housing Ordinance (IHO) tiers and the substantial tax credits granted to developers – often prioritize developer profits at the expense of the city's and schools' financial health. These policies are projected to cost Evanston tens of millions of dollars over time, shifting the burden of city services for non-affordable units onto all other taxpayers – both homeowners and renters. This approach is not sustainable and must be rethought. For example, under the proposed 605 Davis development, a 20% IHO deal would result in roughly $40 million in forgiven taxes over 30 years while providing only 43 additional affordable units. Instead, Evanston could collect the full $2.5 - $3 million in taxes each year, provide funds for the school and city and maintain the IHO requirement at 10%, and use those funds to directly invest in long-term affordability – such as purchasing an existing 40-unit building (like Tapestry Station) and gradually converting it to affordable rentals. Alternatively, the city could acquire smaller 2- to 6-unit buildings and partner with local nonprofits to manage them as community-based, mixed-income housing. New construction alone will always be cost-prohibitive for most Evanston residents. To truly address affordability, we must expand homeownership opportunities, land trust cooperative housing while create home maintenance and ownership education programs, and tackle economic disparities through job training and trade apprenticeships – for example, by repurposing an existing school as a contractor training hub. Ultimately, we must stop relying on the false hope that developers will be willing to sacrifice their profits for the public good. It's unrealistic and fundamentally contrary

#	Anything else you'd like to add regarding Housing4All, the City's strategic housing plan?
637	Most of this is unrealistic..Evanston has limited resources
638	The affordable housing issue has roots in inequities in education. Improving literacy for students in low-income settings would improve occupational opportunities and long-term earning power. Evanston school districts face a long-term issue of inequity in K-12 education outcomes. It is an issue that goes beyond the school districts and needs to be addressed at the community level. Until we address the education inequities the demand for affordable housing will continue to grow. We need a n Evanston Literacy4All Draft Plan.

643	No one is entitled to live exactly where they want. Evanston's government is highly inept so they should not be meddling in the housing markets.
644	I'm a social worker. This plan is an impressive and much-needed step toward advancing housing equity and community well-being in Evanston. It acknowledges that housing is essential to health, stability, and belonging. From a social work perspective, though, I believe it could be even stronger by explicitly naming housing as a human right. Article 25 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights states that everyone has the right to a standard of living adequate for their health and well-being, including housing. The National Association of Social Workers affirms this same principle—recognizing access to safe, stable, and affordable housing as a fundamental human right and a cornerstone of social justice. When we frame housing as a right rather than a commodity, we reinforce our collective responsibility to protect human dignity, reduce inequities, and build a community where every resident has a place to call home.
645	Good to see this strategic housing plan. Looking for strong zoning policy to put this into action.
646	When designing subsidy programs and other initiatives to support affordability and prevent displacement, I would like to see the City place particular priority/ emphasis on families with young children. Doing this would help preserve the age diversity in addition to racial and economic diversity. To be vibrant, communities need people of all ages, and it often feels that programs prioritize seniors at the expense of young families.

666	"Preserve and create 3,000 - 5,000 housing units" is ambiguous. There needs to be separate aims for both preservation and creation, or it can be interpreted in countless ways. For instance, the preservation of 3,000 units and creation of no units would meet this criteria, but it does not remain true to the emphasis on creation. In short, in order for there to be no confusion on the number of units that must be preserved and the number that must be created, outline distinct aims for each. Goals related to decreasing segregation are unclear. What does it mean to "decrease extremes" of segregation? What does that look like? Particular strategies and goals lack clear projections or substantiation. For instance, the permanent preservation of 100 affordable units appears extremely low to meet the aim of increasing affordable housing on the scale that the housing plan alludes to earlier. The strategies do not reference evidence or case studies. The housing plan does not provide estimates or projections for each strategy (i.e. how much closer will each one bring us to the goals)? There needs to be statistics and numbers for each strategy. I understand that this is a guiding document that will inform future strategies and courses of action, but it still needs to be grounded in evidence and have clear estimates/projections for both the aims and strategies. This will make it easier to conduct a cost-benefit analysis between strategies and narrow them down.
667	This does not seem like a neutral exercise. Every step of the way here is a heavy handed attempt to deregulate our zoning, but this will very likely raise land values and result in only extremely expensive projects being built. There needs to be a NEUTRAL impact study before the city and mayor push through changes for development that may end up with the unintended consequence of eliminating a good portion of affordable and middle housing replaced by very expensive luxury. You must research the forecasted impact! Otherwise, your zeal to deregulate may have the unexpected, negative consequences as experienced with the zeal to build Foster School without thinking through what might happen. You might just make Evanston more expensive, create more of an exodus of Black and brown residents, create a high-end Lincoln Park. Also, it is not right that a lobbying group, Joining Forces for Affordable Housing, has a huge paid campaign to influence the results of this public survey.
669	focus on keeping existing housing stock from being converted into expensive multi units, that doesn't help affordability, city has low % of SFH, don't blanket upzone, city needs to manage budgets to keep property taxes affordable for those that live here including low and middle class.

670	This survey design intentionally simplifies response data to the point where it has little significance. It allows only simplistic "like" votes and does not allow space to comment to explain the "why" nuances of a choice.
