For Introduction

Ald. Suffredin, inquired about the current issues that need resolving and the locations where the issues exist.

Matt Rodgers, former Chair of the Zoning Board of Appeals, summarized his concerns with the Plan Commission proposal with encroachments, including enclosing porches that become living space and then adding a new front porch. He stated this is a long-term concern and belief that porches are no longer used for socialization as those activities have moved to rear decks.

In response to Ald. Fiske, Mr. Rodgers stated that a roofed and enclosed front porch is treated the same in the code, and also that there is still a variation process to restore houses to their original footprint if a front porch has been removed.

Ald. Wynne, noted that front yard green space important for everyone on a block because of smaller front yards. Zoning regulations create a level of certainty for neighbors as a social compact.

Ald. Wilson is supportive of allowing residents to use yards and is concerned with pushing people to rear yards. Believes there will be a greater impacts in some neighborhoods and feels that a 6-foot front porch is not overly large.

In response to and inquiry from Ald. Rue Simmons, Scott Mangum, Planning and Zoning Administrator, provided background information about existing setback regulations and allowed projections.
